Detroit Jewry Mobilized To Aid Israel; Dedicate This Sabbath for Action

Ask Immediate Allied Jewish Campaign Payments; Israel Bond Sales Must Reach $2,000,000 Here Within a Week

ZUCKERMAN HEADS ISRAEL EMERGENCY FUND

Fortifying this community's message to Israel that the embattled Israelis will not be let down by Detroit Jewry in this crisis and in the struggle for the state's survival, congregational and community leaders mobilized all forces here to secure the financial aid necessary to assure Israel's subsistence and to keep its industries functioning.

Taking serious measures to guarantee that the Israelis will not be handicapped for lack of food supplies, and that the vital industrial plants should not be forced to halt their normal operations, a two-way program of action has been instituted: a strong effort to secure large additional sums for the United Jewish Appeal's Israel Emergency Fund through the Allied Jewish Campaign, and increased activities for the sale of Israel Bonds which provide for the Jewish State's activities outside military fields.

The services in all synagogues this Saturday will be devoted to appeals for these two purposes and requests will be made for immediate payments of pledges made to the Allied Jewish Campaign, for the Israel Emergency Fund and for extended Israel Bond purchases.

Phillip Stollman, chairman of the annual Israel Bond dinner to be held Monday at Cobo Hall, said it is hoped that the $2,000,000 mark will be reached in Bond sales.

William Avrunin, executive director of the Allied Jewish Campaign and the Jewish Welfare Federation, reported that hundreds of thousands of dollars in advance payments are being received towards recent campaign pledges and that additional gifts are being made generously.

Hyman Safran, president of the Jewish Welfare Federation, announced extraordinary steps to be taken to rush cash overseas through the Israel Emergency Fund set up nationally on Sunday by the United Jewish Appeal.

"We are calling on all friends of Israel, Jew and non-Jew alike, to step forward with a contribution to ease the hardship that its people are now facing," Safran said. "The women, the children, the old people, all of whom are suffering because of the cut-off of government participation in welfare programs for immigrants or because the breadwinner is now in the armed services, need our help."

"Many of the people in Israel are those who all too recently have known unspeakable horror and persecution, and are just now beginning to make a place for themselves in a homeland. We cannot let these people suffer more."

Safran said that every penny which is contributed to the Israel Emergency Fund would go immediately overseas. Funds

Israel's Triumph . . . Nation's 'Finest Hour' and Successful Resistance . . . Implications of Cease Fire . . . Problems Ahead

Israel's valorous army has routed enemies on several fronts . . . Egypt's military forces, superior in number, supported by 900 tanks and an air force larger than Israel's have been routed and driven close to Suez . . . The Old City of Jerusalem and Mount Scopus, the sites holy to Jews; the Wailing Wall which Jews have been prevented from visiting for more than 19 years, and scores of other important areas now are in Israel's hands . . . Sharm el-Sheikh has been captured. Now Israel faces the consequences of a cease fire and must strive to retain the gains made in a short but decisive war . . . Israel must deal with problems that involve the Arab refugees, which has been muddled by misrepresentations and exaggerations, and the need to attain not an armistice but peace . . .
