return to normal with the curfew lifted for the first time in the city of Gaza where the civilian population was allowed to go out to purchase essential commodities. Electric power was restored today in the Old City of Jerusalem and work was speeded on repairing the water supply system.

Israeli settlements along the Syrian border, free of the danger of shelling for the first time in years, began the task of repairs and reconstruction from the damage inflicted by Syrian shelling in the final days of the hostilities. The Israeli Navy, meanwhile, announced significant victories with the disclosure that two Egyptian submarines and a number of Egyptian Russian-built missile boats had been sunk and damage inflicted on port and naval installations in Alexandria and Port Said.

LONDON (JTA)—British correspondents in Communist countries reported that despite the break in diplomatic ties with Israel announced by Moscow, Jews in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev—as well as in Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania—held special Sabbath services for Israel.

Soviet intensive efforts to secure a united stand against Israel among the Communist block countries suffered a heavy blow this weekend when the Romanian Government broke away from its East European allies and refused to join in the anti-Israel statements and threats emanating from a conference in Moscow. The conference reportedly approved measures aimed at rearming the Arab states and supporting demands for the withdrawal of Israel from newly occupied territory.

Romania, whose relations with Israel have been steadily improving during the past year or more, also refused to join with the Soviet Union and some of the other East European states which broke off diplomatic ties with Israel. Nicolae Ceausescu, general secretary of the Romanian Communist Party, and Romanian Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer, who participated in the conference, reportedly objected to the Soviet plans to break diplomatic ties with Israel and with the conference decision to brand Israel as the aggressor in the latest Israel-Arab conflict.

Two months ago, Romania moved to improve its relations with Israel by signing an agreement expanding the commercial ties between the two countries. Following the recent outbreak of hostilities, the Romanian press has reported objectively on the progress of the fighting, giving both sides of the picture. In its note this weekend informing Israel of the break in diplomatic ties, the Soviet Government—which was followed in this move by Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria—charged Israel with "gross violation of the Security Council decisions" and "continued aggression against the Arab states."

Hadassah Returns to Scopus Hospital; Israeli Flag Hoisted in Ceremonies

JERUSALEM (JTA)—The Israeli flag was hoisted atop Hadassah Hospital on Mt. Scopus at special ceremonies. This marked the return of Hadassah to Mt. Scopus after an absence of 19 years, during which the area was under United Nations jurisdiction, sealed off from Hadassah medical personnel.

The proceedings of the Mt. Scopus ceremonies were radioed to the Hadassah-Hebrew University medical center in Jerusalem's Judean Hills and were listened to by the patients—including Arab Legionnaires—being treated at Hadassah Hospital there. The Hadassah-Hebrew University medical center was erected to replace Hadassah Hospital on Mt. Scopus. The new Hadassah hospital was hit by three Jordanian shells within 36 hours after Jordan entered the war, knocking out a wall of the gynecology clinic and causing slight damage to one of the Marc Chagall stained glass windows.

A beehive of activity, Hadassah Hospital has been functioning on an emergency basis since the outbreak of hostilities. Arab Legionnaires are being given the same care and treatment as the Israelis. They are kept in the same wards as Israeli fighters, who express "healthy respect" for the fighting qualities of the Legionnaires.

TEL AVIV (JTA)—Gen. Yeshahayu Gavish, who commanded the Israeli forces on the southern front, said Monday night that Israel had used only three divisions to rout and destroy the seven Egyptian divisions in the Sinai Peninsula.

Accompanied at a press conference by the three divisional commanders, Brig. Gens. Israel Tal Avraham Yoffe and Arik Sharon, Gen. Gavish estimated Egyptian losses at between 1,000 and 10,000 men. He said 600 to 700 Egyptian tanks had been destroyed and 100 captured.

Israeli losses in the campaign were 275 men killed and some 800 wounded and 61 tanks knocked out.

In the course of the campaign, the Israeli forces overran a fully-equipped missile site between the Milla pass and the canal zone, equipped with the Soviet-built SAM surface-to-air missiles, it was disclosed.

Gen. Gavish attributed the success of the Israeli forces to the fighting spirit and morale of the troops who knew that they were fighting "for the very existence of Israel."

Three men were killed and two injured Monday night when the vehicle in which they were riding struck a land mine in the vicinity of the old Gaza Strip border. The mine had apparently been recently laid by Fedayeen.

With isolated sniping still continuing in the city of Gaza police and army units continued Tuesday to comb the area for Fedayeen units believed to be still at large. A number of the Arab terrorists were believed to have taken cover by mingling with the civilian population.

Special investigation units are screening groups of suspects. Many of the terrorists disposed of their uniforms and donned pajamas.

Gaza, except for occasional sniping, was quiet Monday when a group of correspondents visited the city. A strict curfew is in effect and inhabitants are permitted on the streets only between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The Jordanian army may have suffered relatively the severest blow of all the Arab armies in the lightning war they unsuccessfully launched against Israel.

Four of King Hussein's five brigades were destroyed by the Israelis. These included two armored brigades which were recently equipped with the newest American Patton tanks. Many of these tanks were captured intact and have already been incorporated into Israeli armored units.

Conservative estimates place at 300 the number of tanks, many of them still in usable condition—left behind in the Sinai desert by the fleeing Egyptians. Special Israeli salvage units are now at work in the desert to round up the equipment and supplies abandoned by the Egyptians. Veterans compared the situation with that following the Egyptian debacle on the same terrain in 1956 when the Israelis captured vast stores of arms and equipment.

A number of small skirmishes have been reported from the area as small Egyptian units sought to break through the Israeli lines to cross the Suez Canal. As a rule, the Israelis permit all who wish to do so to cross the canal but they must be disarmed first.

Israeli patrols have been picking up Egyptian soldiers wandering alone or in small groups. Suffering intensely from lack of water, as in 1956, most of them discarded their heavy army boots so as to be able to move faster.

Reports from the Syrian frontier revealed that numbers of Syrian soldiers who had been hiding in caves or in the groves of (Continued from Page 11)
