

Early Cease Fire and the Egyptian Prisoners

Israel's Triumph Over Jordan

WISDOM FROM THE GEMARA

A scholar is recognized by his conduct as regards money, and drinking; also by the control of his temper, by his dress, and, some say also, by his speech. Four things are unseemly for a scholar: to walk out at night, to smell of scent in the street, to be among the last to enter the synagogue, to dally much with the boorish. Let the scholar be seemly and quiet in his eating, drinking, bathing, anointing, tying his shoes, in his charitable deeds. — Derek Eretz Zuta, 5:2, 3; 6:1; 7:2.
